Christie,

Just wanted to check and see if you thought you'd be able to get responses by the end of today.

Thanks,

Ethan

Christie,

Has Chip gotten back to you about the archived sites, per our conversation Thursday?

Also, I was wondering if you could give me some information about how superfund sites are funded through enforcement, which was something we talked about a little last week.

Per our conversation, financial commitments, obligations, outlays, etc., in CERCLIS only represent appropriated funds from Congress. Separate funding comes from enforcement actions.

Could you please tell me about the enforcement funding? I'd like to know the official name of that financial account (or accounts) and how income and expenditures are tracked and what format the data is kept in (.xlsx, .dbf, .pdf, something else).

Also, are enforcement actions and resulting financial management handled at the regional level or HQ level? If the EPA secures funding through an enforcement action, does that funding go directly into a regional financial account, or does it go into a national EPA financial account that is then distributed to the corresponding region?

Is it possible you could get this to me sometime tomorrow?

Thanks,

Ethan

Ethan, we've not been able to figure out what's wrong, but here is a copy of the DED that Chip happened to have. It's from 2012 but is the latest version.

Christie,

Just wanted to be sure you saw the above message. The website is still sending errors.

Hey Christie,

Just wanted to follow up on our conversation from 3/31. Did you hear back from Chip about the archived and active databases?

Also, the online DED isn't working. Can you please check on this and let me know what's going on?

Here's the link to the site:

<https://cumulis.epa.gov/ded/>

I get this error page whenever I try to navigate the site or try to access a specific page from google:

Thanks,
